JANE and MARGUERITE Classmates of Daisy and Rose.

RODERICK LUNDGREN Lilah's father, and grandfather of Daisy and Rose. In his late 60s. Rod has a wry sense of humor and uses his age as an excuse to say outrageous things.

WILL O'HANNORAN Lilah's husband; father of Daisy and Rose. Will is a hard-working man who loves his family, but doesn't often say so, because he assumes they know it.

Bicycles Built for Two

Many of America's most beautiful songs in a Broadway-style musical

book by PEG KEHRET
musical arrangements by ART WIGGINS

"When You Were Sweet Sixteen," "My Sweetheart's the Man in the Moon," "Bicycle Built for Two" and three other unforgettable tunes from long ago have been woven into a warm and wonderful story about different kinds of love. Graduating from high school in the early 1900s are the two O'Hannoran sisters, each at the threshold of her own special dream. Daisy hopes for a marriage proposal, seeking only traditional values. But Rose is in love with the "man in the moon." Reaching far beyond the traditional, she wants to go to college, to live away from home, to have the chance to discover her limits. A whimsical fate dashes both their hopes, but strong family love prevails in a joyous ending that brings laughter, tears and a wonderful warm feeling guaranteed to last for days or weeks. Costuming and staging of this musical is not difficult, but the effect is beautifully nostalgic. The six hit songs are written easily in the voice ranges of high-school performers. Orchestration is for seven pieces: piano, trumpet, alto saxophone, trombone, string bass, guitar and drums.
